FUTURE OF SUFFRAGE.

CONGRESS may agree upon a national suffrage amendment to be submitted to the voters of the several states, but that is about all the good it will do. The action of Congress is the easiest way of getting rid of an unpleasant subject and dismissing it forever from thought or consideration. The Susan B. Anthony amendment at one time was very popular, but times have changed and the attitude of the suffragettes in hectoring the president has alienated the sympathy of the thinking public. The conduct of a few women in assailing the president at the very threshold of his home was shocking under the conditions reigning in the country. Evidence goes to prove that the enemy has been most perniciously active in business, social and political circles, with the object of hampering the administration in mobilizing troops and building up sentiment favorable to prosecution of the war. No one will accuse the women of the United States of receiving any funds from inimical sources, but they could not have been more active had their insolent campaign been financed directly by the Kaiser. That any association of American women could have been blind to the best interests of the nation at a time so fraught with deadly interest proves that, as a body, the women entrusted with the cause of suffrage have not the proper poise to fit them for active management of political affairs. The report of the House committee is but a hollow victory and one that will result in complete defeat of the measure of enfranchisement. Reports from Germany, Austria, France, England and Italy prove that the women of these countries are doing their best to uphold their governments in the fight against autocracy by lending an active hand to every movement having for its object the mitigation of the severities of war. These women have taken the places of fathers, brothers and husbands in the fields, where they are ploughing, seeding and harvesting crops that would have remained unplanted or fallen in the furrows for want of help. This work has been done by ladies of noble birth, many of whom had never done any hard work in their lives, but the spirit of patriotism led them to endure hardships so that the fighting forces might be kept at the front where they were most needed. There is no use telling the story of what the women of Russia have done to hold together the shattered ideals of democratization. They were not found wanting. In every country on the face of the globe the women have rallied to the support of their governments, but in the United States senseless bands of hopeless petticoated politicians have covered their sisters with shame and brought the noble cause of suffrage into the deepest and most unutterable contempt.

ARGENTINA TO THE RESCUE.

NEXT to the declaration of war by the United States of North America no action is so pregnant with far-reaching consequences as the entry of the Argentine republic into European hostilities. The offer of that nation to send two divisions fully equipped across the Atlantic shows how deeply the people of that nation feel over their betrayal and the heaping of obloquy on their heads. Germany has toyed with the Argentines pretty much the same way as it played with this country, promising, regretting, repenting and retracting, yet all the time keeping up a campaign of insult and injury which finally became so irksome that a long suffering people revolted and demanded that their leaders go through to the bitter end in punishing the foe which treated them so contemptuously. For over a week sentiment has swayed for and against the central powers, which are strongly entrenched in Argentina with enormous fortunes invested in almost every industry. These influences have restrained the Latin republic from precipitating hostilities and the general strike of railroad employees which followed so closely on the severance of diplomatic relations may be ascribed wholly to German influence, which has been manifest in the same sinister manner in this country. With a population of 8,000,000, Argentina has available a large army, owing to the fact that military training has been compulsory and the country does not have to wait like ours to train and equip a modern and efficient army. Without resorting to special legislation as we had to do, Argentina can muster 500,000 seasoned and trained soldiers. These men are backed by a navy that is known as one of the best in the world in a relative sense, as it boasts of twelve battleships, two dreadnaughts and the usual complement of cruisers, destroyers and a fairly good tonnage of merchant ships, which will be augmented materially by confiscated vessels belonging to German and Austrian interests. In area Argentina exceeds the area of Great Britain and Ireland ten times and its exports of wheat are in excess of $70,000,000 per annum.

PASSING OF BONANZA KING.

PRIVATE advices tell of the death in Colorado Springs, Colorado, of James F. Burns, one of the many poor men who sprang from obscurity into the brightness of the noonday sun through fortunate investments in mining. Mr. Burns was working for small wages when the Cripple Creek boom began and he was one of the first to secure a location, which proved one of the best in the district and which yet continues to pour out its treasures in profusion. Mr. Burns did not lose his head when he grew rich beyond his wildest dreams and he would have been one of the potent factors in the development of Southern Nevada had he not met with experiences that drove him away at the height of the Goldfield boom. As it is his estate today enumerates among its assets one of the best located pieces of ground in the Goldfield area. This is known as the Albemarle group, in which there has been scarcely the scratch of a pick. He had faith in Goldfield and was eager to invest extensively in that district, but at the outset he met with an experience at the hands of the I. W. W. which embittered him against the young camp. He owned a large block of stock in the Florence, but refrained from taking any active part in the management, which he chose to leave entirely to the direction of the late Thomas G. Lockhart. Notwithstanding what he endured from the roughneck element, Burns was a friend and benefactor of the gold camp and it was due to his generosity that in the famous winter of 1906-07 the coal famine prevailing in this southern country was alleviated to a great extent. Mr. Burns was visiting Goldfield at the time and learned of the fuel famine through a newspaper friend whose office he visited, to find the force trying to keep warm around a tin stove filled with Congressional Records. Burns left for home next day and three days later wired his friends that he had dispatched a trainload of coal billed to the newspaper in question. "Serve the women and poor families first," was his only injunction, followed by the explanation, "Sell for cash and remit when you get through and it is convenient." These instructions were followed to the letter and, although the coal was sold in 500-pound lots for $20 a lot there was a deficit at the end of the distribution, which the Colorado millionaire assumed. There was plenty of money, so there was no financial stringency at that time to contend with, but the whole western country was suffering from a similar shortage and the trainload of fuel carried in open cars was robbed right and left until less than 60 per cent of the original amount reached its destination.

Those who went through that harrowing experience of standing in line knee deep in snow and facing a driving blizzard before they could secure their coal tickets will invoke blessings on the name of the generous Irishman who saved them from freezing to death, surrounded with gold and yet unable to buy a stick of wood or a pound of coal until the arrival of this shipment.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

(By Associated Press.) CINCINNATI, Sept. 26.—Boston won the first game of a double-header by hitting Reuther and Bressler almost at will and piling up a total of 13 runs, while Tyler allowed only six widely scattered hits and no runs. The second game developed into a pitchers' battle between Toney and Scott, going 11 innings to a 3 to 3 tie, darkness stopping the play.

(By Associated Press.) CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Brooklyn defeated Chicago 3 to 1 in one hour and eight minutes. The game was a pitching duel between Carter and Cadore. The former did not permit a man to reach first base until the seventh inning, when after two men were out Myers singled and scored on Stengel's triple. Opposite hitting by the locals in the second inning saved them from a shutout.

(By Associated Press.) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26.—Effective pitching by Miller enabled Pittsburgh to defeat Philadelphia, 3 to 0. He held Philadelphia to four hits and two passes and did not allow a runner to get to third base. Oeschger, pitching for Philadelphia, had one bad inning, the fifth, in which nine men went to bat, three scoring and three being left on base.

(By Associated Press.) ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26.—St. Louis beat New York, 5 to 3, and clinched third place in the pennant race.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Chicago defeated Washington in the first game of the series here, 7 to 5, 30 players participating. The visitors stole ten bases.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Detroit defeated New York in the opening game of the series here, 4 to 2. McGraw, formerly of the University of Colorado, pitched a great game for eight innings, permitting only two scratch hits. In the ninth he weakened, after the side should have been retired. Four hits, a base on balls and two errors resulted in four runs. Baker's suspension was lifted. The club announced he will suffer no loss in pay.

(By Associated Press.) BOSTON, Sept. 26.—A single by Pinch Hitter Thomas in the last of the thirteenth, with the bases full and one out, scored two runs, enabling Boston to beat Cleveland, 4 to 3. Pitching honors were even between Shore and Giepler.

ANTIQUE METHODS OF FIGHTING FIRE

ATHENS, Aug. —There was a fire on the main street of Athens the other day which permitted one to see the Athenian fire department in full action. First came a huge tank of water drawn by horses. There is no water from fire hydrants, for water is very scarce and people are not permitted to take baths. So the fire department brings the tank of water to each fire, and the fire is held down as long as the tank holds out. Back of the tank comes one of the venerable hand-pumping devices which Benjamin Franklin introduced when he started the volunteer fire organizations in America. Still the Athenian fire department has a good record, mainly because Athens is built of stone and cannot burn.

The day after the fire the huge tank was seen on the same street laying the dust, and it was explained that the fire department was also the street sprinkling department.
